IN BIG BLAZE AT

street through No. 8, and east on Madi-son to the alley between Main and second streets. The blass broke out in the workroom and stereroom of the sporting goods store, on the alley end of the building. The cause has not been ascertained by the firemen, out one member of the firm expressed the belief that a short circuit in wiring caused the blase.

Second Alarm Spread.

Two alarms were sent to fire head-quarters. The first one was rurned in by a night watchman, who spied the hiase in the alley end of the sporting goods store. He pulled Box No. 124. Main and Madison, at 2-41 a.m., head-quarters records show.

Tracks Nos. 1, 4, 5 and 3, and the water tower responded. When the firemen arrived, the greedy flamen were shooting clear across the alley, licking at the Postal Telegraph building on the other corner of the alley.

Fire Chief Mike Pitamorria, in personal charge, ordered a second alarm sounded. As his companies on hand began their hard battle against the finness the bell summons called out five more companies. It was 2.48 when the second alarm tapped, and a few seconds later companies. Nos. 2, 2, 6, 7 and 12 were thundering on their way to the big blaze, while outside companies, in keeping with fire department ethics, crept in to replace the close-in companies has were fighting the fiames.

In addition to Chief Fitzmorris, the three assistant chiefs were on hand, shouting directions, and striking here and there at the heart of the blaze, in a measterful effort to keep it confined to the building where it had originated. For two hours, replete with specialization thiefs Julius Venturini, John Moore and Barney O'Neil urgsed their mea on. Including the salvage corps, which early arrived on the scaun, there were $6 mon to combat the blaze.

The salvage corps sid splendid work, while the hess mun plied stream after stream on the fire. With huge tarpaulins, the property protectors amashed sin doors, and covered all pershable goods that could be reached. Their most effective work was done in the Wood & Edwards clothing shop, the Liggette Optical company, the Buckingham-Ensley-Carrigan Co. sales-room and the Moseley-Robinson drug store. of the alley, Chief Mike Fitzmorris, in pe store.

Two carloads of gnetallic cartridges, stored in the rear of the sporting goods store, began popping like several machine guns were at work. At one time a number of them went off together, and the resultant explosion was likened to a six-pounder by one of the fighters who plied a hose line.

Men Escape Injury.

The flames licked out of the first floor windows on the alley side, where they first were discovered, and were sucked into the second-atory windows. They are into the walls, and thence to the roof. The rear section of this soon gave way with a crash, plunging in and among the doughty firemen, who had ventured with hose lines to the second floor from Madison avenue stairway to the building. But the roof was not particularly heavy, and the crash injured no one.

furniture.
Rumors arising following the fire, that the building would not be repaired, but would be replaced by a modern skyscraper, were set at rest by Mr. Guthrie, who stated that the old building would be repaired, and that work on it would be started at once.

Storeroom Ruined.

Storeroom Ruined.

The front section of the Buckingham-knelsy-Carrigan store was used as a sales and display room. Thousands of sollars' worth of fine gups, fishing tackle and the like were protected in part at least by tarpegilins spread by the salvage corps. But in the rear section of their 15e-foot storeroom, which they used for the purpose of storing various sorts of goods, and for a repair valious articles wednesday. Thursday held inconglomerate masses of what various articles, guns, fishing tackle and all reserve stock practically was ruined beyond any hope of sulvage. Severat inches of where still was on the floor of the salesroom at 8 dislock Thursday morning, three hours after the blaze had been put out.

This was true of every other ground floor storeroom, including the drug store on the corner. Firms using basement rooms were in much worse fix. The Wood & Edwards company had stored in the basement about $5,000 worth of new fall clothing, still in shipping boxes. These floated about in the water which poured into the basement from the several lines of fire hose.

Nash Buckingham, of the BuckinghamEasley-Carrigan Co., said Thursday morning that it probably would be 30 days before their storeroom could be repaired so that it could be occupied.
His company, meantime, he said, would find temporary quarters somewhere downtown, and would be open for business in a fet days. Ind the fire occurred a month or so later, the damage would have been three or four times as heavy. Mr. Buckingham said, owing to the fact that their heavy line of fall sporting goods all would have been in the store at that time.

The Moseley-Robinson drug sfore, tarpaulin shrouded, was selling soft driffs
at a little after 8 o clock Thursday morning, although this was the only department open for business at that hour. However, T. A. Robinson stated that they would be open for business as usual a little later in the day.

Other firms drenched by water were preparing to transact business as usual, even while repair work is going on.

A high tribute to the fire fighters was paid Thursday morning by H. W.
Liggette, of the Liggette Optical company. "It was marvelous to see the firemen work on that blaze," said Mr.
Liggette. "I got down town shortly after 3 o'clock, and when I arrived I wouldn't have given 19 cents for this building. But those boys kept working, and in about two hours they had that fire out. They certainly deserve all the credit in the world for the splendid work they did."

Columbia River Has Strange Pictures In Symbol Writing

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 25.-Whether

SPOKANE, Wash, Sept. 25.—Whether painted symbols on the rocky banks of the Columbia river, in Elickitat county, Washington, are Indian symbols or whether they are Indian symbols or whether they are Indian symbols or whether they are the records of early Teutonic explorers is to be submitted to experts of the bureau of Indian affairs at Washington, D. C., for their verdict,

That the pictures are fragments of early history of the tribesmen of the Pacific Northwest is the belief of W. S. Lewis, of this city, secretary of the Eastern Washington Historical society. He believes they are 250 years old.

The theory that they are the writings of European tra-elers of many hundreds of years ago is held by Oluf Opejon, a student of archeology who resides at Dishman, near this city. The same symbols also discovered by Mr. Opejon, he says, on a big stone on the seashore north of Boston, Mass.

The "painted rocks" are on the west side of the Columbia river, two miles north of Vantage ferry. Among the "pictures" are those of two goats described by Mr. Opejon as part of an astronomical symbol. He believes they were intended to indicate the equinoxes.
